

ASSASSINS IN AUTOMOBILES FIRE ON STRIKE BREAKERS

Armed With Automatics Equipped With Silencers, Band of Men Fire on Club Rooms in East New York Car Barn and on Police Who Pursued Them.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 7.—Increased violence marked the ninth day of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit strike. The worst disorder occurred when about 15 men, in two automobiles, opened fire upon the men's club rooms at the East New York car barns, where about 500 strike breakers are quartered.

The attackers, the police say, were armed with automatic pistols equipped with Maxim silencers. Police reserves were rushed to the scene and the attackers fled firing upon their pursuers. The police commandeered automobiles and gave chase and a thrilling running fight developed. About 20 shots were fired, but so far no one was wounded. The attackers escaped.

Small bands of marauding strikers harassed the company by tampering with signals, greasing rails and cutting trolley wires.

William D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway Workers; Patrick J. Shea, leader of the Brooklyn Union; John J. Reardon, organizer of the Brooklyn Union; and Louis Fridiger, counsel for the strikers, were scheduled to confer with Mayor Hylan and Acting Public Service Commissioner Barrett at city hall at noon.

THREE KILLED BY NIAGARA SLIDE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Niagara Falls, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The bodies of three persons, a man and two women, lay in the Niagara County Morgue today, victims of the gigantic slide of rock from the cliff above the falls near the Cave of the Winds yesterday. The tourists were crushed to death while climbing the last bridge leading to what is known as the "Biddle Stairs." The dead are: A. Hartman, Brooklyn; Mrs. Louis Hartman, his wife, Brooklyn; Clara M. Faust, Pittsburgh, Pa. Two persons were injured, T. W. Lee, Miss Faust's fiancé, Pittsburgh, and Frank A. Paehling of Detroit.

They are at the Memorial Hospital here. Their condition is not serious, it was stated this morning.

The tourists were caught in the descent of approximately five tons of stone.

CATSKILL MAN HURT.

Ad Brought to Home of Friend in Dazed Condition.
Monday evening a taxi drove up to the home of William E. Powers on Ten Broeck avenue, and the driver assisted Michael Finnerty of Catskill, a friend of Mr. Powers, into the house, and then left. Mr. Finnerty was found to be quite badly injured, and was in such a dazed condition that he was unable to explain how he was hurt. His leg was badly torn and he was also bruised about the body. He was later removed to the Benedictine Sanitarium where it was stated this morning his condition was improved. Mr. Finnerty has not been able as yet to explain how he received his injuries, but the supposition is that he was in an auto accident that day.

"Nightly Night" Was Good.
The farce, "Nightly Night," given at the Kingston Opera House Saturday afternoon and evening, was one of the best plays of its kind ever shown in Kingston. It was handsomely staged, and the acting was the best seen in a long time here. The entire cast were exceptionally good, and the play lived up to the promise made of keeping the audience laughing throughout the evening. The plot was the usual mixup of between married couples, but there was not a suggestive line in the play, and the action was well sustained throughout the entire three acts.

PREMIER CUTS VACATION SHORT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Sept. 7.—Sharp divisions of opinion in the British cabinet over the government's policy towards Terence Mac Swiney, the hunger striking Lord Mayor of Cork, and other matters, led Premier Lloyd George to abandon his plan to stay in Switzerland until September 15, and to hurry home, it was learned today.

It is reported that some of the premier's colleagues criticized him for taking his vacation so far away from home in the face of the Irish crisis and the threatened national coal strike, which is scheduled to begin on September 25.

But the premier has not been idle while at Lucerne, although his activities there deal with international affairs, rather than domestic problems.

One result of the premier's canvass of the international situation at Lucerne is the appointment of a new British ambassador to France, according to information secured from semi-official circles.

Lord Derby, the British ambassador to Paris, is returning to London and it is understood he will be succeeded by Lord Hardinge, secretary to the foreign office.

It is significant that Lord Hardinge was the late King Edward's representative in effecting the Entente Cordiale between Great Britain, France and Russia.

Premier Lloyd George's arrival home may be followed by the release of Mac Swiney and other Irish hunger strikers if guarantees are given by the Sinn Féin that the murder of policemen in Ireland cease, according to a dispatch from the correspondent of the Daily News, who traveled from Lucerne with the premier.

The correspondent credited Premier Lloyd George as saying that such a proposal was under consideration.

Cow in Cemetery.

A cow that had strayed from the Cold Spring House, town of Ulster, was found dead in an old cistern on the top of the mountain near Sawkill.

HERO ON ST. LOUIS 32 YEARS AGO

The Rev. Putnam Cady, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, this city, is giving a course of lectures this summer at the Hammond Avenue Presbyterian Church, Superior, Mich. The Superior Telegram of August 18, recalls a thrilling adventure on the St. Louis river 32 years ago, in which Dr. Cady played the hero part. The Telegram states:

"The St. Louis river was the scene of Dr. Cady's rescue of Johnny Logue. It happened on a Sunday school picnic. Logue and several other boys were playing near a railing on the steamer that was taking the picnicers up the river. They bumped against a railing, the railing gave way and Logue and a Mr. Gordon, Dr. Cady's assistant, fell in the water.

"Dr. Cady was among the first to dive in the river. Logue struggled and tried to grasp the minister around the neck. To save the lives of Logue and himself, Dr. Cady struck Logue and stunned him, and then swam safely to the shore. Gordon sank before anyone could reach him."

GRAHAM MONUMENT IS UNVEILED

Another Historic Spot in the Annals of Border Warfare, When "the Frontier" Was Very Near to Kingston, Appropriately Marked.

In the corner of a small clearing alongside the road, by the side of a brook that runs through forest and brush lots, the monument that marks the site of the frontier skirmish in which Lieut. John Graham and two of his command were killed by raiding Indians on September 5, 1778, was unveiled Monday afternoon by Miss Eleanor Rose of Ellenville, a descendant of Lieutenant Graham. Rain marred the ceremonies and beyond the unveiling it was impossible to follow the program outdoors, the 500 persons who had assembled repairing to the Methodist Church in Grahamsville to listen to the addresses. People in automobiles and wagons had come from many miles to attend the ceremonies and bit for the fruitless work of the state troopers who acted as traffic police, there would have been a hopeless jam and, doubtless, several accidents.

The monument is on the right hand side of the highway leading through Grahamsville to Claryville, about a mile beyond Grahamsville. It is a boulder of native stone, having a bronze tablet suitably inscribed, and stands so near the road that the inscription may be read from any passing vehicle. Beside marking the locality of an interesting historic happening, it serves to call attention to the truth regarding an occurrence of which much fiction has been passed as history has been written and told. Without warrant in fact, many historians (?) have stated that of Graham's men only three survived the "massacre." Instead of all but three having survived, Political bitterness of a century ago is, probably, responsible for much of this fiction. Col. John Cantine having been active in politics and his opponents never scrupling to misrepresent his war record.

Judge Harrington Putnam of Brooklyn, whose summer home is nearby, presided, and the historical address was delivered by the Hon. Thomas E. Benedict of Ellenville, to whose efforts are largely due the erection of the monument and that at Faintinekill several years ago. Mr. Benedict spoke as follows:

Citizens of Grahamsville: We stand today on one of the battlefields of the American Revolution. Here, one hundred and forty-two years ago, amidst the gathering gloom of night, surrounded by the towering trees of forests unbroken yet with the coming of the white man, generous and patriotic settlers enrolled as soldiers in their country's cause stood in bloody border warfare against the most cruel and hostile enemies the British crown could marshal against them.

Here they came under orders of superior military control; here they made stand, a feeble band in numbers; and here they fought and died in the uniform of their country, making the willing sacrifice which duty demanded of the brave and true.

If there was a failure at the Chestnut Woods on September 5, 1778, it was not theirs. Lieutenant Graham and his fellows here did their part nobly, bravely and worthily. All that could wisely be done they did, and any untoward criticism made by superior officials later regarding their were unwarranted. The memorial you unveil here will not only revive the history of this spot, as well as the legends and romance of the past connected with it, but it will teach to all who view it lessons of patriotism that may well cause us better to understand the republic's early struggles and inspire us to better understanding of the blessings and opportunities we enjoy.

I am able to give but little of the personal history of the men we honor today. Lieutenant John Graham was an officer of the 2nd Regiment, Ulster County Militia; Col. McClaughery. He was later reported as killed in action and papers on file at Albany show that a pension was asked on his account with no statement of his regiment. John Graham's name appears on the roll of the 3rd Regt. Col. Cantine, as a private. John Graham's name appears on the church records of the old Wawarsing Church as the father of a child baptized June 17, 1774. Mother, Catherine DeWitt. The names do not appear again. Nor do they appear in the church records of Marlborough or Accord. Rochester. His home was probably in that part of Ulster, west of Newburgh, where the Graham family of considerable number lived. There were Amblers in the same vicinity, but there is no record of an Adam Ambler in state or church records, nor is there any record of Robert Temple's name on any military roll. These men were probably voluntary substitutes for relatives or pay at the period of their death, substitution being permitted in both the Continental Line and Militia at that period.

Today it is our duty to place John Graham and his companions in true historic light. They were not an embattled host going forth to fight on a plain selected by military science with all the panoply of offensive armament, but were simply volunteers who stepped forward at the call of duty in their country's cause. The responsibility so far as their numbers, their aims and purposes were concerned was that of superior authority. To understand the soldiers of the Revolution at that hour, we should recall that in the fall of 1774 our country was at the

ANDRUS GETS BACK AT BASCOMB

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Deputy Attorney General Wyman S. Bascomb, conducting the investigation of the extraordinary grand jury into gambling and vice conditions in Saratoga, was ordered this afternoon to answer charges made in court by counsel for District Attorney Charles B. Andrus, of Saratoga, indicted for grand larceny and willful neglect of duty that "the investigation is a dastardly political conspiracy directed against Andrus."

Mr. Bascomb was given until next Thursday by Supreme Court Justice Van Kirk to make his answer.

Lawrence B. McKelvey, attorney for District Attorney Andrus who was superceded by Bascomb to conduct the grand jury's probe, charged that the investigation and the subsequent indictment of Andrus, was "the only way his political enemies had of removing him from office."

"District Attorney Andrus had been elected to his office each time he has run by an overwhelming vote," added McKelvey. "This whole affair is nothing more or less than a dastardly political conspiracy against him and I can produce evidence of it."

Justice Van Kirk asked that the evidence be produced and after a conference with Mr. McKelvey, Prosecutor Bascomb was ordered to make answer to the charges.

The matters now to be brought before the meeting are matters which the association deems of importance to every taxpayer as well as to the public generally, and therefore requests a large attendance of the members of the association, as well as the taxpayers generally of the city.

M'SWINEY LIVES IN DEATH'S SHADOW

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
London, Sept. 7. (3:15 p. m.)—Terence Mac Swiney, hunger striking lord mayor of Cork, was still alive this afternoon but rested in the very shadow of death.

"Terence's thoughts are all of death," said his sister after a visit to the Brixton jail infirmary. "He is resigned to death and wants to go. He has given up all thought of release."

Arthur O'Brien, Sinn Féin leader and friend of Mac Swiney's, declared that, if Premier Lloyd George is willing to discuss a cessation of hostilities in Ireland, as a condition for the release of Irish hunger strikers, he can officially communicate with the proper persons and the matter will be considered.

Citizens' League Still Active.
The Citizens' League of Ulster county, which did so much to make many of the towns dry in the previous campaign of former years, is as anxious now to help in the enforcement of the 18th amendment. There is reason to believe that the law is violated in some parts of the county. If those who know of such violations of law will send the names and residences of these law-breakers to either the president of the league, Edward A. Smiley, Ninemaska, or to the secretary, the Rev. P. N. Cham, 15 Green street, Kingston, clearly stating which phase of the law is being broken, the evidence will at once be placed in the hands of those appointed to see that the law is enforced. No anonymous communication will be considered.

Dr. Frank A. Johnson, city health officer, Mrs. Mary O'Neil, public health nurse, and Sanitary Inspector William H. Scott, are attending the state health conference in Saratoga Springs. Dr. Johnson's office on Fair street will be closed for several days and he will return.

AGRICULTURE.

So few birds are harmful that when one has doubts, it is better to protect them all.

This fall is a good time to plant shrubs and perennial plants. Larkspur is good for a blue background.

Reward the vegetables that behaved well this season by saving the seed for next season's planting.

Seed corn selected in the field where it grew can be judged on how it performed in competition with neighboring stalks.

After the farm implements are sheltered for the season, axe and saw help make farmers independent of the coal shortage.

Whether all signs point to a long winter or not, an abundant woodpile is good insurance. Coal is going to be higher than ever.

There would be more sympathy and understanding if every business man read a good farm paper, and if every farmer read a business journal.

At this time of seed corn selection you might like to send a postcard to the college of agriculture at Ithaca, for F 129, a publication on improving the corn crop by selection and breeding.

DEER SEASON SHORT.
Only One Month Allowed in Which To Bag Game.

Deer hunters this year will have to get busy early in the season if they want to bag a deer during the open season. The open season this year is limited to one month, from October 15 to November 15. In previous seasons the hunter was allowed six weeks, from October 1 to November 15, but a wholesale slaughter of deer last fall forced the 1920 legislature to restrict the open season to one month.

In Ulster county the season opens on November 1 and closes November 15. Under provisions of the amended conservation law deer may be taken in the Adirondack counties from October 15 to November 15, while in Ulster, Sullivan, Rensselaer, Delaware and Orange counties deer hunting is permitted only from the first to the fifteenth of November.

The law also specifies that only one deer can be taken by each hunter.

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 7, 1920.

AN OPPORTUNITY.

This is a story of what one woman, a motoring enthusiast, can do for a city. It came to The Freeman in the form of a "publicity" story, written to boost a certain make of car, but the real point is in something else:

Recently in Indianapolis, Indiana, there was dedicated what has been called the Dandy Trail, a tour of eighty-eight miles around the city of Indianapolis. The "Trail" is named in honor of "Dandy," the prize Pomeranian of Mrs. N. E. Noblett, who originated the idea of the Dandy Trail and stood sponsor for it on the day of its formal opening. Mrs. Noblett, who is the wife of the secretary of the Hoosier Motor Club, led the procession of cars that made the trip around the Trail on the day of its dedication.

The average city motorist uses his car as a utilitarian transportation medium on week days. On Sunday short pleasure trips out into the open usually are planned. In most cities it has been left to the individual motorist to explore the countryside on his own account. It was Mrs. Noblett's belief that motor car owners would appreciate the establishment of a community trail, which would make it possible for even the "fenderfoot" motorist to enjoy the best that his neighborhood has to offer in the way of scenery.

The new Indianapolis motorway leads through scenes of rustic beauty and provides hundreds of ideal spots for picnickers and campers. The Trail is in the form of a rough oblong, boxing in the suburbs and may be entered by way of any of the main streets leading out of the heart of the city in all directions. It is a trail of wonderfully fine roads and is appreciated by Indianapolis motorists and visitors probably to a greater degree than any other trip out of Indianapolis.

The Dandy Trail points the way to other communities in the matter of providing an ideal tour for motorists. Especially does it point the way for Kingston, a center from which a score of such routes could be laid out for the guidance of tourists from all over the country who visit Kingston enroute to other places and never know of the many attractive drives that lie in this vicinity.

OUR STATESMEN IN JAPAN.

Those American statesmen, who, with their families, are touring the Far East in a government ship, have not kept the cables hot or written bulky letters giving their impressions for publication. Possibly the cost or the labor tends to check them at a time when they are paying out of their own pockets $1.50 a day for their meals in order to make a first-hand investigation of Oriental problems. However that may be, they have just been heard from for the first time. The somewhat surprising news comes that they insisted on visiting Korea against the wishes of the Japanese. Korea is a convert to the doctrine of the self-determination of small peoples and in consequence is not on the best of terms with its imperial overlord, Japan. Naturally the Japanese did not welcome an investigating junket by American congressmen, and in order to stave it off, even went so far as to warn the intrepid visitors that Korea brimmed over with Asiatic cholera.

Nevertheless our devoted congressmen ignored the very broad hint, heroically braved the danger of pestiferous, went where they were not wanted, and then were followed about by Korean revolutionists who begged them to accept petitions asking for the aid of the United States in throwing off the yoke of Japan. It is to be hoped that our traveling Solons then realized their mistake and began to weigh their words and otherwise become discreet. Their official Korean aspirations toward independence should have our entire sympathy, but investigation on the part of the League of Nations rather than a bunch of globe-trotting American congressmen. Moreover, there are already enough causes of irritation between this country and Japan without inviting another likely to be heavily loaded with political dynamite.

Getting Even.

"Here's a charge for a call lasting half an hour on our telephone," said the lawyer to his wife.
"Yes, dear. That was my call. I was asking a friend of mine a question," replied the wife.
"And did it take half an hour to ask a question?"
"Yes, dear. You see, it was one of those hypothetical questions."—Houston Post.

Free Speeches

William Lyon Phelps, professor of English literature at Yale, declares he gets credit for only 25 per cent of the after-dinner speeches he actually makes. "Every time I accept an invitation to speak, I really make for addresses. First, is the speech I prepare in advance. That is pretty good. Second, is the speech I really make. Third, is the speech I make on the way home, which is the best of all; and fourth, is the speech the newspapers next morning say I made, which bears no relation to any of the others."—New York Times.

Speaking at a dinner, Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts referred to the necessary qualification of teachers, and related the following story:

One afternoon a man was motoring through a country town when he stopped to look at a man who was putting a dog through a number of clever tricks.

"Those tricks are some of the best I ever saw," commented the motorist when the performance was over. "Did you teach the dog to do them yourself?"

"Every one of them," was the proud rejoinder of the koodle's owner.

"I don't see how in the world you manage to do it," returned the motorist. "I have tried time and time again and I can't teach mine a single trick."

"It ain't so hard," was the rather startling rejoinder of the other. "But of course you have got to know more than the dog."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

RAILROAD MEN HOLD BIG MEETING

Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers Celebrate Labor Day — Supervisor Hoag Given Diamond Ring.

Ulster Local of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers held a meeting on Sunday afternoon in Mechanics' Hall transacting business of importance. Vice President Platten of Boston with M. J. Cadigan arrived from Boston, Mass., and George Keays of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., were in attendance at this meeting, which adjourned at 7 p. m. in anticipation of what was in store for the celebration of Labor Day, as this local had determined to celebrate the day in a fitting style. There was some preparation going on the whole forenoon of Monday for the feast which was spread for about 300 members of this local who were able to attend out of a membership of 500, and their invited guests, among whom were observed H. I. Hoag, supervisor of sub-division 21, who has been transferred to a like position at West Albany; with greater responsibilities; Mr. Johnson, who succeeded Mr. Hoag on sub-division 21, and Mr. Dunn, assistant supervisor of sub-division 21. Mr. Hoag was also present.

The good things to eat were indulged in at about noon and the banquet was followed by song, music and step dancing. George Sharkey, in an appropriate speech, assured Mr. Hoag of the high esteem in which he was held by his co-workers of the river division and assured him that his transfer from Kingston was regretted by the men who were under his supervision. In token of esteem Mr. Sharkey, on behalf of the men, presented Mr. Hoag with a beautiful diamond ring.

Mr. Hoag replied in a very fine speech in which he thanked the railroad men in general and especially the trackmen and track foremen of sub-division 21 of the River division for their ever proven loyalty and co-operation. Speeches followed by A. A. Jacobson, Grand Lodge Vice-President G. H. Platten, who assured the supervisors present that what had taken place in the presentation was not because Mr. Hoag was an officer but was a man among men loyal to the railroad company and loyal to his men. He also assured the members there was a time when Mr. Hoag could not have been present and when the members themselves could not dare to participate in a labor meeting. He also assured the members that the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers was going on and on until the purposes and aims of this labor organization, which is a railroad organization, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and the Dominion Trade and Labor Council with affiliated contract with the other seventeen organizations which made the total of recognized and bonafide railroad organizations, was attained and that is an eight hour day with an American living wage.

M. J. Cadigan, an organizer, followed. He hailed from Boston, Mass., and went into detail on the jurisdictional claims of the Carpenters and Joiners of America for the railroad carpenter and showed conclusively that they had never appeared before any wage board or did anything towards the betterment of the railroad carpenter, but had been a hindrance to the railroad carpenter and had been the means of keeping the railroad carpenter from enjoying as much in the wage awards as other mechanics on the railroad. He also spoke about other organizations who were not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and known as outlaw unions, and the leaches who were in the offices, living off the proceeds of hard earned money paid by some railroad men to maintain these organizations, the railroad men reaping no reward in increased wages.

William Parker, general chairman of the New York Central Railroad, who comes from New York City, spoke next and went into detail on many matters of grievances, back pay, reclassification of some employees to higher rates and back pay for some, and told the boys that this organization had gotten back money owed to the men of one item of $300,000. Mr. Parker answered questions and gave advice to the membership.

Michael Fiscarelli, New York City, a New York Central foreman in the electric zone at 139th street, spoke to the Italians in the Italian tongue, which was much appreciated.

George Keays, New York Central system division organizer, who hails from Saratoga Springs, N. Y., made a few remarks on organization in general and the pride that he had for Ulster Local.

Songs were rendered by Thomas Delane, Miss Rodney and Miss Soplin at the piano. "Buster" Smith pleased all in fancy dancing. Music was furnished by the U. B. of M. W. orchestra, composed of colored musicians, and was excellent. Dancing was indulged in until midnight in the ball room of the Mechanics' Hall, where the whole day and evening were pleasantly and profitably spent, and every one voting the day a success. The committee of management was Samuel Reed, William Mills, John Bergen and officers of Ulster Local.

This organization, of which Ulster Local is a part, is composed of all bridge and building men, truckmen, flagmen, coal dockmen and shop laborers working upon the steam railroads. Grand Lodge headquarters, 27 Putnam street, Detroit, Mich., with branch offices in Canada and United States, with over 300,000 membership.

MATTERS HEARD AT SPECIAL TERM

Applications Heard And Orders
Granted by Judge Hasbrouck in Supreme Court Cases in This City.

The New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company has commenced certiorari proceedings to review the assessment of that railroad in the village of Ellenville, and on Saturday before Judge Hasbrouck the assessors of the town filed their return. The proceeding is taken against M. H. Weasmer, M. A. Reaford and H. B. Lauber, assessors of the village. The railroad claims the assessment is excessive as compared with other village properties, and that any assessment over $13,875 is excessive, such figures being one-half of $27,750, which the company claims is the correct valuation, and alleging that village property is assessed at only fifty per cent of its value. Philip Elting appeared for the railroad company; Cleon B. Murray of Ellenville represented the assessors. Judge Hasbrouck reserved the decision on the matter.

A hearing was had in the case of Andrew B. Van Wagenen and Gertrude A. Van Wagenen against Henry C. Bloomer and Lillian Bloomer, his wife, application being made to open a default. The defendants took the papers which were served on them to a Vermont lawyer who followed the practice of the Vermont courts in serving notice of retainer in duplicate on the county clerk of Ulster county. Under the Vermont practice, the county clerk forwards one copy to the plaintiff's attorney and retains one copy. The result of the Vermont lawyer's action was that judgment was taken against his clients by default. The action involves property in the town of Rochester and the action is brought to reform a deed which included property which the plaintiffs claimed was not intended to be sold. Since the commencement of the action Mr. Van Wagenen has died and it was said that his wife is seriously ill through worry over the transaction. Judge Hasbrouck granted the motion but provided that the testimony heretofore given by Mrs. Van Wagenen before a referee should be used in case she is too ill to testify, and in the event of her death before trial, the motion to be denied. Newton H. Fessenden appeared for the defendants and the motion; H. Westlake Coons of Ellenville appeared for the plaintiff and opposed.

GREAT VARIETY IN DIVORCE CASES

Pioneer Regiment Musician Gets Unexpected Decision—Pang Yang Holds Own in Fugrant Collection of Cases in Supreme Court.

Divorce cases all the way from the common garden variety to one from Pang Yang, with a true Pang Yangian flavor, and another which for dramatic uniqueness surpassed anything in the divorce line that has been tried in Ulster county in a long time, were heard before Judge Hasbrouck at last Saturday's special term of the supreme court.

Both Wanted Divorce.

For unusual developments and outcome, the action for divorce brought by Caroline Scavonie against Joseph J. Scavonie took the honors in the sweetestakes class. Caroline was represented by ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier. It appeared from the testimony that both she and her husband were employed at the Riverside Hotel at New Paltz. Testimony given by two witnesses was to the effect that Joseph did but little work beside looking after two women of the household, one of whom was known as "Hattie." They said they had seen Joseph hugging and kissing Hattie in the kitchen, but there was no other evidence of impropriety. The nineteen-year-old brother of Caroline, however, testified that when he called on Joseph at his room in a lodging house in New York city in order to serve the summons and complaint on him, he had noticed a woman's blue silk dress hanging near the window, and the closet disclosed a woman's attire hanging there when Joseph opened the closet door to get his laundry.

The husband, who is an Italian, was a member of the 51st Pioneer Infantry Band. He was in court but was not represented by counsel. He had consulted a lawyer in New York, he said, after he had been served with the papers but he had not interposed any defense to the action. He had come to court, he said, because he wanted to cross examine his wife if she took the witness stand. He cross examined the other witnesses and smiled at their replies. There was a slight brush with the nineteen-year-old brother over what he saw in the room in New York, but the brother denied that what he had seen was the night shirt belonging to Scavonie or that the latter had told him the service of the papers was not good because, he, the brother, was under arrest.

Mr. Brinnier called Scavonie to the stand to identify letters he had written to his wife in which he stated that he had no objection to having her get a divorce if she could but was not willing to have it cost him anything, either in the way of alimony or counsel fee.

Then addressing Judge Hasbrouck, Scavonie explained that the reason he objected to paying any money for his wife's support or for her to get a divorce was because she had run away with another man. On his return to New Paltz last year after being discharged from military service, he said he inquired of his mother where his wife was, but his mother could not tell him. All she could tell him was that Caroline had run away with a man named "Sam."

A few minutes before court opened, he added he had talked with Caroline's brother who had admitted she was living with "Sam" or whom she had had a child which was now five months old.

Mr. Brinnier said that at the time he had commenced the action he knew nothing of these facts but only recently had learned of them. However, Scavonie had not interposed any defense to the action which was against him. To his questions, Mrs. Scavonie said she had kept these facts secret when she consulted Mr. Brinnier. To Judge Hasbrouck's question, she said the man with whom she was living and by whom she had had the child was named Sam Arnstein.

Judge Hasbrouck directed that the husband's default be opened and he be permitted to interpose an answer setting up his wife's infidelity as a counterclaim. Judge Hasbrouck dictated for the record what the counterclaim should state, and thereupon directed that an interlocutory decree of divorce be granted to Scavonie. Mr. Brinnier announced that this was satisfactory to both parties, both of whom wanted to be free.

The Pang Yang Case.

In the case of Richard Bilyou against Plaza Bilyou, an action for divorce, most of the parties who appeared as principals or witnesses either live now or formerly lived in that section of the town of Lloyd known as Pang Yang. The villages of Nicholas and Centerville figured prominently in the testimony. Andrew Wright Lent appeared for the plaintiff and Giant Dolin, a negro lawyer of Four-Keepsie, appeared for the defendant. Both the husband and wife accuse each other of infidelity.

The parties were married about eleven years ago and have two children, whose ages, their mother said, were about 5 and 10 years. She brought up her child about five years ago, but the husband said the date of separation was April 20, 1916. He served for two and a half years with the American Expeditionary Forces in France, receiving his discharge in April, 1919, but the wife alleged in the complaint occurred before that time. The children are in a home to which they were sent by some judge in Four-Keepsie, according to the testimony of their mother, but their father is not contributing anything to their support, which she alone pays.

The principal testimony against Mrs. Bilyou was given by Giuseppe Caruso, an Italian whose lack of ability to speak or understand English finally made necessary the services of Peter Blason as interpreter, and Graham Blason, a brother of the plaintiff. Both Caruso and Graham Blason were named as co-defendants and both substantiated the testimony against Mrs. Bilyou. Graham Blason is still wearing his military uniform. John Bilyou, another brother, also testified that his testimony concerned a visit which he and Graham had made to the house when Graham was friendly with an other woman who was there, but his own relations with Mrs. Bilyou were proper.

Some of the visits to Mrs. Bilyou said the witnesses were made while Bilyou was in the Kingston jail.

On behalf of Mrs. Bilyou, Anna Simpson, 22 years old, testified to an assault which she said took place at the Bilyou home while she was working there when a little girl, and for which she had had Bilyou arrested. She thought the assault took place about four or five years ago, but the docket of the justice of the peace showed that the complaint against Bilyou was made in 1913.

Mrs. Simpson's sister, Mrs. Bell, whose husband died recently, testified to what she had seen when she peeked through a crack in the door of a neighbor's house where Bilyou was making a call. Mrs. Bell admitted that she had been a complainant against a man in bastardy proceedings.

Bilyou, recalled to the stand, said he had talked with Anna Simpson Friday night and she told him she intended to testify against him. He had reminded her, he said, that at the time of his arrest she had said there was nothing in the assault charge but she had to say what her sister told her, and that the same lawyer who had appeared for him before the justice would be in the court at Kingston. Her reply, according to Bilyou, was that she had been told Mr. Lent would not appear in the case.

Judge Hasbrouck directed that the case be continued next Saturday.

Admission Not Sufficient.

A hearing was had in the action for divorce brought by Mary A. Skinner against Elmer Skinner. The parties were married in 1905 and live in Delaware county. Eugene H. Poulton appeared for the plaintiff; there was no appearance by the defendant in addition to the testimony of the plaintiff which was of the usual variety. Testimony was given by the process server who said that when Skinner was served with the summons and complaint, he had admitted that the allegations, with one exception, were correct. Judge Hasbrouck said he would require additional testimony as unsupported admissions were insufficient. The matter was held open.

And a car old and wicked friend, Mr. Punch, turns up his long nose, looks his apple eyes, humps his hunched back a bit more, throws out his exaggerated chest and arms dramatically. Ever since he first saw his baby was hauled to Mrs. Judy, not away from her, and was followed up by the mince of justice, he has been waiting the policeman and making fun of him. Punch is as old as Imperial Rome, as the Marche church due up early in the light, with century show. Mr. Punch was presenting him and witness Judy at Court Garden in 1700, as the Tattler, No. 16, indicates and 1710 as shown in the Spectator, No. 14. Their generation of children since then has found something like Mr. Punch and, alas! witness Judy and the sweetest policeman, a debut. Children are built that way. Punch and the Punch idea and the Judy idea, and the policeman idea have become forms of the Anglo-Saxon understanding. Motion picture makers have to stand such forms and cater to them. They couldn't make a lay hear of a ruffled virtue if they would. They wouldn't if they could. But after all, no great harm is done. Most of the spectators know what the policeman really is and respect him for what he is as well as what he does. Humor is divergence from common sense and to appreciate common sense you have to appreciate common sense. The more difficult philosophy of other folks in uniform or out of it. The more difficult philosophy of triumphs over ones own weakness. Triumphs over ones own weakness. Triumphs over ones own weakness.

CHURCH FOLKS SHOULD WORK

Lack of Well Directed Activity One of Greatest Weaknesses in Church Movement—Should Use Business Energy in Church Work.

At the anniversary service of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Spring Street German Lutheran Church last Sunday evening the Rev. A. Schmidt-konz delivered the following interesting and timely address:

Dear Friends:—We celebrate again the anniversary of our Ladies' Aid Society. The real aim of such a celebration is to renew our vows to be faithful to the Lord and His church; to band together and encourage each other to be more active in our church work. It is in this sense that I wish to speak to you this evening.

The text which I selected for this pleasant occasion is recorded in the Book of Nehemiah 2:18: "And they said, Let us rise up and build." So they strengthened their hands for this good work. The topic of our discourse should be "All at Work."

Let us first briefly observe the touching narrative that precedes our text. Nehemiah was one of the Jewish exiles in Persia and an attendant to King Artaxerxes. He was a pious man and had the love of God in his heart and the fires of a noble patriotism burning in his soul. When he heard of the sad state of Jerusalem he was overwhelmed with sadness that for days he fasted and prayed to God, and when the King wanted to know the reason of his gloom of his soul he said to him: "Why should not my countenance be sad when the city, the place of my father's sepulchres, lies waste, and the gates thereof are consumed with fire?" This statement was followed by a most gratifying consequence, for time was given him to go to Jerusalem, protection was given him on the way and also a letter to Asaph, the keeper of the King's forest, to give him whatever timber he needed for the work of repairs on the gates and walls of the city.

When Nehemiah reached Jerusalem and saw the lamentable condition of its gates and walls the sight filled him with enthusiasm to carry out his purpose of restoring the walls. He knew the importance of the restoration of the city to the future good of the Jews, and hence summoned the people to join in the work of repairs. And the people banded together and said: "Let us rise up and build."

When I read this I wonder why it is that in the Kingdom of God we could not be just as well banded together; why, since there is work for everyone to do, we could not all be encouraging each other in the work of building up the church of Christ? O, let us rise up and build!

Many of us like activity. We delight in the busy movements of our times, we rejoice to hear of the activity of commercial life, and watch with interest the life and vigor which business men now put into their work. Then in the intellectual world all is life and go, and in the political world it is the same. In every direction there is life and motion. "Rest and be thankful" belongs to other days. The slow motions of the old times, when the stage coach and the slow-sailing vessel were the modes of travel, did well enough in those distant days which our grandfathers have spoken of as the "good old times." But they will not do for our days. Never was there a period in history more throbbing with commercial, intellectual and political life and action than in the days in which we live.

It should be just like that in the Church of Christ, only more so. Of all organizations in the world the Christian Church should be the most active, the most full of life and work. Inactivity has sad consequences. Stagnation means death. It is a sign of a low state of spiritual life in a church when the members are not as much concerned as to be as busily engaged in up-building their church as they are in pushing their business.

When Nehemiah was building up the walls of Jerusalem he found himself with a stiff piece of work on hand. The difficulties of his task did not arise from the work itself so much as from the outside opposition he had to face. But he organized his forces. He employed everybody, the women as well as the men. The women were not left out, and the poor were included. There were no idle hands in his hive, no idle hands—every man had his task and did it. Every man had a bit of work to do. All were engaged in this grand, this religious, this patriotic work.

It should be so in the church. It is the duty of every Christian to take a strong hand in the promotion of his church. There should be no idlers, no unemployed, no hangers-on, no tressingly sad the number who do sit at ease in Zion. And yet I fear there are many of them. It is truly troubling said the number who do no personal work in the congregation. Some of these inactive members excuse themselves and say: We pay our dues and the pastor and officers have to do the work, they have to make it go. This makes me think of a church into which some people came who just expected to be nursed and moved along by the church, and if the church didn't move them along, if things didn't go according to their wish, and taste, they found somebody to blame. Generally those who do the least find most fault.

Other people came into that church who were moving powers, to help in the work; to help the preacher, to help in many ways—in all his efforts. So they just took a hold and made things go. They didn't wait to have things move them—and the church was soon in a prosperous condition. A church that is filled with living active members must prosper.

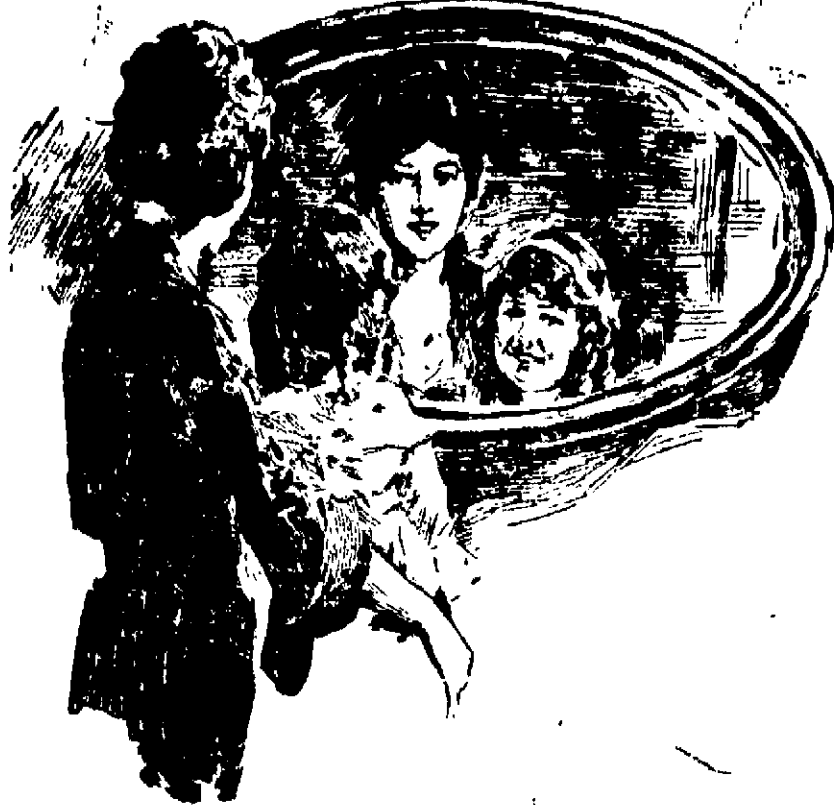

What we need in our congregations today are those who take an interest in church work, who are ready to sacrifice not only of their money, but also of their time, their labor, their strength and ability—men and women who do their duty without ceasing—men and women of such love for their church as Nehemiah possessed.

And those who love their church, who are moved by the enthusiasm of love, they will do as the people at Jerusalem did when Nehemiah summoned them to join him in the restoration of the city—they will band together and say: "Let us rise up and build." We know that in a church there are many things which can be done only when people organize and band together and take hold of hands. And often when things don't go right in a church it is because somebody hasn't taken hold of hands. A labor leader once said: "One man, one job." Of the church I would say: "A work for every man and every man at his work."

How does all this bear upon ourselves here as a church and people? How does it strike us? Are we hit by any of the words I have spoken? I fear we must plead guilty. We can do more for our church than we do. We can if we will; we must if we can. If all of us do what we can and what we ought to do, our congregation will prosper. And when the end of our life and work comes, how delightful it will be to have God speak approvingly: "They have done what they could." Amen.

Teeth Shine

When the film goes—watch and see

All statements approved by authorities

Learn how teeth look—how they feel—when you combat the film.

Get from your druggist, without cost, this ten-day test. Note the instant results, then look in ten days.

Millions have already done this. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Now show your home folks what clean teeth really mean.

The war on film

Dental science, the world over, is fighting a war on film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Those troubles have been constantly increasing. The ordinary tooth paste does not end film, so the tooth brush has proved inadequate. Millions know how well-brushed teeth have discolored and decayed.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And, despite all brushing, few escape these troubles caused by film.

New ways to fight it

Now dental science has found ways to fight film, day by day. Able authorities have proved the methods efficient. Leading dentists everywhere now urge their application.

The methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. To millions it has brought a new era in teeth cleaning. And to every home a ten-day test is offered free, so all may quickly know it.

Quick, visible results

Anyone can see and feel what Pepsodent is doing. No old method of brushing ever brought such effects. So we let this test convince you.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied also, and at once. That is to neutralize mouth acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

The effects of Pepsodent come with every application. We constantly combat, in efficient ways, the teeth's great enemies. And millions of teeth are given new protection and new beauty.

The Certain-teed Guarantee as a Basis for Estimating Roofing Cost

The Certain-teed guarantee provides a basis for estimating the approximate cost per year of your new roof.

Certain-teed Roofing, Number 3 Heavy, is guaranteed for fifteen years. It usually lasts longer.

Taking fifteen years as the assured life and dividing the unusually low cost of Certain-teed, as compared to most modern types of roofing, by this figure, you readily see how economical Certain-teed is.

The light and medium weights of Certain-teed are also guaranteed, five years for the former and ten years for the latter.

In addition to its durability, Certain-teed is weather-proof, fire-retarding and spark-proof.

And it costs less to buy, less to lay and less to maintain than any other type of good roofing.

See a Certain-teed dealer about roofing. If he hasn't enough of the weight you want in stock he can quickly get more from a nearby Certain-teed warehouse or distributing center.

USUAL CROP OF AUTO ACCIDENTS

During the Labor Day holiday season there was an unusual amount of automobile traffic over all of the roads, and as usual, a number of automobile accidents, most of them of a minor nature. Sunday afternoon a Ford truck coming along the High Falls road near the junction of the Ellenville road, went over the embankment, through the guard rail and down the steep bank into the field twenty feet below. The car was considerably damaged. Farther up the road near the foot of the long hill beyond Stone Ridge, a Studebaker car went into the ditch, turning completely over and wrecking the car. Who the car belonged to or if anyone was injured, could not be learned. People who came by shortly after the accident, found no one around the wrecked car.

In the evening two Ford cars came together head on near the tollgate on the plank road. One of the Ford cars was driven by two colored men who it was said reside on North street. The cars were considerably damaged.

There were a number of slight accidents in the city caused by skidding on the wet pavements, none of which, however, were of a serious nature.

BOY KILLED BY SLOT MACHINE

Weighing Scales In Front of Wall Street Store Topped Over When Boy Climbed Up.

After having had several narrow escapes during his five years of life, Gilbert J. Markle, son of Wilson D. Markle of 39 North Front street, was killed in front of the 5 and 10 cent store of S. S. Kresge & Company at No. 327-329 Wall street, Sunday night, when a slot machine platform scales toppled over on him, fracturing his skull and breaking his neck.

No satisfactory explanation of the way in which the accident occurred has been made yet. The boy had been listening to the band of the Salvation Army, which was conducting its usual evening meeting at the corner of North Front and Wall streets, and asked his mother for a cent with which to weigh himself. She gave him the coin and he left her to use the platform scales which were standing in front of the Kresge store. According to one story, he found the slot too high to insert the coin without climbing on the standard which supports the dial and started to climb when the machine fell over on him. Another story is to the effect that he had climbed up the standard to drop a coin in the slot while his little brother stood on the scales, and after sliding down, stepped back and was looking through the doors of the store when the machine fell over on him.

A scream from the boy and several companions alarmed spectators at the corner, who rushed to the Kresge store, where they could see the boy's body lying on the sidewalk, which was spattered with blood.

Captain Young, of the Salvation Army, was one of the first to arrive. Kenneth Canfield, son-in-law of Dr. W. E. F. Little, and Mrs. Canfield, had been listening to the Salvation Army band from their automobile and quickly offered the use of their car to convey the injured boy to the hospital. Policeman James Martin and George K. Savatky, of the Canfield store at 324 Wall street, helped carry the boy to the car, and Captain Young held him in his arms until the hospital was reached. The car was delayed at the West Shore crossing, and when the hospital was reached, Dr. Frederick Snyder pronounced the boy dead. An examination disclosed the fractured skull and broken neck.

The platform scales which caused young Markle's death stands inside the store during the week days but on Saturday nights is placed outside. The entrance to the store slopes up from the sidewalk to the floor, and in order to give the weighing platform a proper level, a wooden platform is provided on which the machine is placed. The scales weigh about 150 pounds.

About three months ago young Markle is said to have had his foot run over by an automobile while playing in the street. On Sunday, while playing in front of the Salvation Army barracks on North Front street, he had a close call from being hit by an automobile, and also narrowly escaped being hit by a trolley car.

The funeral will take place from St. Joseph's Church on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock.

Newburgh Policeman Suspended.

Police Sergeant Warren G. Boyd of the Newburgh force was suspended without pay by City Manager McKay pending a hearing on charges which in substance are that, pretending to have been detailed on special work in connection with prohibition enforcement, he had approached saloon keepers with this information and had warned them to be careful. No such assignment of police officers has been made.

Attala. Attala resembles its name from an old Arab word which means in English "the best kind of fowler". The plant looks something like clover and grows very rapidly. In fact it grows so quickly that three or four crops can be harvested during the summer.

Importation of the Elephant. The first instance of an elephant being brought to western Europe was in 997, when the Caliph Haroun al Rashid presented one to Charlemagne. It was not until 1250, however, that the well-known and suggestive animal went to England.

Still Made.

Fatty was talking with her mother about her little brother and her mother said: "Fatty, isn't it funny, Stuart and Fatty have blue eyes, while you and I have green eyes?" Fatty, thinking deeply, finally said: "Never mind, mother, ours will get ripe some time."

On the Way.

The time comes to the coming when those who indulge in luxury and show will be regarded with quite as much suspicion and contempt as was the simple directed toward those who flaunted the doors of their homes after dark.—Edith Coover.

AUTO TRAFFIC
HEAVIEST EVER

Kingstonians who spent Sunday and Monday out of town found that the stream of automobile traffic which was headed toward New York City on Monday afternoon and night exceeded anything they ever had met with before.

Charles J. Michaud, the well known contractor, returned home by automobile from New Jersey during the afternoon and says that until he reached Newburgh there was a steady stream of motor cars which were not more than ten feet apart.

Another Kingstonian returned from a trip to Dutchess county, and found the same condition prevailing along the state road that passes through Fishkill and Beacon. The Newburgh ferry company operated three boats all day Monday, as rapidly as possible. Each boat carried twenty-one automobiles, but at all times there were at least seventy-five cars waiting in Newburgh to cross.

The heavy rain on Monday afternoon and evening delayed many motorists returning to New York and New Jersey and until late at night they were met on all the roads traversing the southern part of Ulster county.
